David MacClement's submission on: Draft regulations for the SEIP: stationary energy and industrial processes sectors. - Reference: <http://www.climatechange.govt.nz/consultation/draft-regulations-seip/index.html>

· I am an individual; one of the "other interested people":

· I support the draft Regulations: current version of ETS Bulletin 10.

· And I agree with these criteria:
v--##=-v

The principles underpinning the methods for calculating emissions are that they should:

- * neither advantage nor disadvantage the Crown fiscally ie, result in a true reflection of New Zealand's Kyoto liability
- * send a clear price signal, with no perverse incentives
- * minimise transactional costs for participants and the Government
- * provide for an accurate and verifiable statement of emissions.

These regulations therefore aim to establish practical and accurate methods by which participants can meet their reporting obligations under the NZ ETS. The requirements for data collection and verification are intended to provide the right balance between simplicity and the robustness of emissions returns.

· I request that there be minimal (if any) changes to the documents as outlined/linked-to in:
